Secretary-General
International Academy of Comparative Law

Recommendation of Václav Stehlík

Prague, July 31, 2024

Dear Secretary-General, dear Colleague,

In my quality of Chairwoman of the Czech branch of IACL I would like to recommend assoc. prof. Václav Stehlík as the candidate for Associate Member of International Academy of Comparative Law.

I have known Václav Stehlík since the early years of his career of EU law lecturer and researcher at the Department of International and European Law, Faculty of Law, Palacký University in Olomouc, Czech Republic. He gradually held the position of lecturer, senior lecturer and now of associate professor and Jean Monnet Chairholder in EU law. Next to it, for several years he was appointed in the position of the Head of this department, now he serves his second term as the Dean of this Law school.

His lecturing as well as research focus on various issues of EU law and its application in Member States, functioning of internal market, migration rules with a special focus on the preservation of the best interests of the child, EU external relations rules as well judicial enforcement of supranational regulations and role of national judiciary with a special focus on supreme and constitutional courts. I can also find in his outcomes a strong comparative approach which reflects the focus of his research. This is especially seen in his analytical work in the area of EU law interaction with national legal orders as well as in his research in migration regulation and protection of the best interests of child. These topics often incorporate international and EU rules as well as their national implementation including administrative and judicial practice.

I would like to point out that Václav regularly presents outcomes of his research at both national and international fora. He also gained and successfully completed a number of national and international projects to enhance tuition and research, including several Jean Monnet projects awarded by the European Commission, Grant Agency of the Czech Republic, Czech Ministerial projects and for example most currently Aktion– Czech Republic/Austria.

I also very much appreciate that Václav transfers outcomes of his research in teaching and education of new generations of lawyers. In this regard, he is the main author of well settled text books used in his courses both in Czech and English. The same is valid for post-gradual courses and formation of Ph.D. students coming both from the Czech Republic and abroad. He has several successful Ph.D. graduates and supervises a number of students, several of them approaching at the end of the studies.

Finally, I would like to underline Václav's responsibilities and work in expert bodies such as Ph.D. committees, Scientific Councils of Law Faculties in the Czech Republic and Slovakia, professional organizations, research groups/networks, and several editorial boards of law journals including Scopus indexed. It may be emphasized that for his work Václav gained several awards.

For the above-mentioned reasons, I am deeply convinced that Václav Stehlík will be a valuable Member of IACL and I fully recommend his admission.

Sincerely yours,

JUDr. Monika Pauknerová
